An Induction Programme was successfully organized for First Year B.Pharm, Direct Second Year B.Pharm, and First Year M.Pharm students of the college under the initiative of the Pharma Innovator Club. The programme was conducted with the objective of welcoming newly admitted students and helping them adjust to the academic environment, institutional culture, and professional values of the pharmacy profession. It provided students with an opportunity to understand the academic structure and professional demands of pharmacy education. The induction programme also served as an important platform to bridge the gap between school and undergraduate learning and the professional course structure of pharmacy education. It created an interactive and friendly environment where students could develop confidence, motivation, and a clear understanding of their future roles as pharmaceutical professionals.

The Pharma Innovator Club plays a vital role in promoting innovation and research-oriented thinking among pharmacy students. It provides a platform for students to explore creativity, critical thinking, and problem-solving skills beyond classroom learning. The purpose of the club is to encourage innovation-driven education and to motivate students to participate actively in research and project-based learning. It also aims to build leadership, communication, and organizational skills among students. The club guides students toward professional ethics and quality development while motivating them for start-ups, patents, paper publications, and scientific achievements. The club continuously supports students in enhancing their practical knowledge and preparing them for professional challenges.

During the induction programme, three senior students actively participated and presented information about the objectives and working of the Pharma Innovator Club. Final year student Shruti Bembade a Final Yr. B. Pharmacy student delivered an informative and motivational session on the importance of innovation in the field of pharmacy. She guided junior students about the advantages of joining the Pharma Innovator Club and explained how they could benefit from activities such as workshops, research projects, seminars, competitions, and industrial visits. She also motivated students to participate actively in club activities to improve their professional competence, personal growth, and self-confidence. Shreya Ingale and Krishna Yadav Second Yr. B. Pharm. student explained the purpose and core activities of the Pharma Innovator Club in a simple and engaging manner. They highlighted opportunities related to project participation, idea presentation, poster exhibitions, and awareness programs conducted by the club. He emphasized the importance of teamwork, creative thinking, and active participation to shape students into innovative professionals of the future.

The induction programme proved to be highly beneficial and effective for the students. Participants developed awareness regarding pharmacy education, professional expectations, and career opportunities. They were motivated to take part in co-curricular and extracurricular activities along with academics. The programme improved their confidence and interest in professional learning. Students gained a better understanding of the importance of innovation and research in modern pharmacy education. They were inspired by senior students and developed comfortable communication with the academic system. Many students expressed interest in joining and actively participating in the Pharma Innovator Club.

The induction programme was conducted successfully and received positive feedback from students. The contribution of senior students Shruti Bembade, Shreya Ingale and Krishna Yadav was highly appreciable and motivating for the new entrants. Asst.
