Report on “Aptitude Test Series”

The Training and Placement Cell of SGRS College of Pharmacy organized an Aptitude Test Series for Final Year B.Pharm and Second Year M.Pharm students with the objective of preparing students for placement and interview processes.

The aptitude test series was conducted on every Saturday for six consecutive weeks starting from 6th December 2025 through the Google platform in online mode. A total of six tests were conducted during this period.

The tests were designed to assess and improve students' aptitude skills in areas such as logical reasoning, quantitative aptitude, analytical thinking, and problem-solving abilities, which are essential for competitive examinations and campus recruitment procedures.

The initiative aimed to familiarize students with the pattern of aptitude examinations commonly conducted during placement drives and to help them improve their speed, accuracy, and confidence. The online mode of assessment provided flexibility and encouraged active participation among students.

Students actively participated in all the tests and showed a positive response throughout the activity. Regular practice through these tests helped them identify their strengths and areas requiring improvement. It also enhanced their readiness for aptitude rounds conducted during recruitment processes.

The aptitude test series proved to be beneficial in strengthening students' analytical and reasoning abilities while preparing them for future placement opportunities. The activity reflected the continuous efforts of the Training and Placement Cell towards enhancing the employability skills of students.
